DREAMS OF DETERMINATION: THE RISE OF A YOUNG ENTREPRENEUR

I have a dream, not just to succeed, but to make life better for myself, for those around me, and for every young person who dares to believe they can be more. The fear of poverty is real, it doesn't just visit you, it lives with you. However, instead of letting it break me, I choose to let it shape me. It taught me how to fight, how to manage, and how to survive.

Over the years, I discovered something deep within myself: a passion for success. A fire that couldn't be put out became my fuel, and with it, I built my vision brick by brick.

THE IDEA: TALKMUCH GLOBAL LIMITED

For over the years i spent with my uncle during my high school days, my uncle was a very passionate business person who never take his business unserious, his determination for growth was very high and he has a passion for different businesses, all my time spent with him wasn't wasted, no matter the difficulty i faced , my passion for business started that moment.

I decided to go into smart tech business in 04 Dec 2023, which made me establish Talkmuchaccessories&more .

THE BUSINESS: TALKMUCH GLOBAL LIMITED

The name Talkmuch holds a deep personal meaning for me one rooted in passion, creativity, and growth. Back in high school, I had a strong interest in the entertainment industry. I started creating comedy skits under the name Talkmuch Comedy, which quickly gained attention. Many people connected with the content, and over time, I built a loyal following of fans and friends who supported what I was doing. That chapter gave me the confidence to express myself, build a brand, and connect with people through something meaningful.

Later on, I decided to transition from entertainment into e-commerce where I saw a greater opportunity to create lasting impact and provide real value through technology. I didn't want to leave the name behind, because Talkmuch had become a symbol of my journey and identity. That's how Talkmuch Accessories & More was born.

Today, Talkmuch Accessories & More represents innovation, accessibility, and reliability. We specialize in a variety of smart tech products ranging from gadgets and electronics to high-quality phone accessories all curated to make everyday life more convenient and less stressful. Our mission is to provide tech solutions that are practical, affordable, and built to last.

In 2024, we took a big step forward by launching our official website: www.Talkmuchaccess.ng. Then in 2025, we introduced a mobile app to make our products even more accessible and user-friendly for customers across Nigeria and beyond. What started as a small retail store has now grown into a platform designed to serve everyone from students and workers to tech lovers and everyday users offering quality and convenience at every touchpoint.

Talkmuch Accessories & More is more than a business it's a reflection of perseverance, evolution, and the belief that even humble beginnings can lead to something great. And we're just getting started.

THE STRUGGLE

True business strength is forged through adversity each challenge overcome becomes the foundation for resilience, growth, and lasting success.

For over two years, it has been an incredibly challenging journey for both me and my team. We've faced numerous hardships in our business ranging from consistently low sales and lack of publicity to serious operational setbacks that tested our resolve. One of the most devastating blows was being robbed three separate times at different store locations. These incidents deeply affected us, not just financially but emotionally and mentally, making us question our path at times.

But despite all of this, we never gave up. These struggles have taught us invaluable lessons about resilience, leadership, and the importance of adaptability. We've learned how crucial it is to strengthen our internal systems, tighten security measures, improve customer engagement, and invest more in digital marketing to boost visibility. Most importantly, we've learned that perseverance is not just a mindset it's a commitment.

Looking ahead, we are focused on rebuilding stronger than ever. We're working on expanding our online presence, forming new partnerships, and finding smarter ways to serve our customers. We're also investing in better training for our team and taking steps to ensure the safety of our staff and stores. While the road has been hard, we believe that every setback has prepared us for a more sustainable and successful future. Our journey is far from over and we're moving forward with greater clarity, courage, and purpose.

THE FUTURE OF TALKMUCH ACCESSORIES & MORE

In addition to geographical expansion, we are focused on product innovation and brand development. Just like established competitors such as Oraimo and New Age, we are developing plans to introduce our own branded product line Talkmuch-labeled accessories and tech devices that reflect our values of quality, affordability, and customer satisfaction. This includes exploring private-label manufacturing, product design, and packaging that aligns with global standards.

Under this umbrella, we're setting the foundation for a diversified brand portfolio, increased investment in technology, and strategic partnerships that will enable us to scale efficiently and sustainably.

MY ADVICE TO ANY YOUNG ENTREPRENEUR.

One thing is to think, and another entirely is to act.

When I began my journey, I had a deep passion and a clear vision of rising to the top. The road has been anything but easy filled with setbacks, sacrifices, and moments of doubt. But through it all, my passion never allowed me to give up on the pursuit of success.

Here's one important truth I've learned:

To dream is easy. But turning that dream into reality takes hard work, courage, and relentless effort.

Whatever you're passionate about, pursue it with consistency. Your success won't come overnight. It's a journey a tough one that many start but few are willing to finish. But if you stay focused, work smart, and remain dedicated, your dream will become more than just an idea it will become your reality.

Don't wait for the perfect time. Start where you are, use what you have, and never stop moving forward.

Success is possible. It starts with belief, but it grows with action.
